

ABSTRACT

A sanitizer for bedding has an irradiation chamber with a light support mounted for reciprocation within the chamber. A light for radiating into the chamber is supported by said light support. A bedding support is mounted so as to be at least partially withdrawable from the chamber. The light support may be mounted medially within said chamber and the bedding support may extend on either side of the light support.